PRESS AND TRIBUNE.

MONDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 13, 1858.

CAMPAIGN PRESS AND TRIBUNE.

REDUCTION OF CLUB RATES.

It is now two months until the election which will decide whether Lincoln, the gallant Kentuckian and friend of Free Labor, or Douglas, the apostate Vermonter, and advocate of Slavery Extension, shall be our next Senator.

We will send the campaign Press and Tribune until the election at the following exceedingly low rates, beginning with next week:

Five copies to one address	$1.00
Ten copies	3.00
Twenty	7.00
One hundred	12.00

☞ If the names are required to be written five cents more must be charged on each name to defray clerk hire.

Friends, lose no time in sending in orders for clubs. A wide circulation of the campaign Press and Tribune will do great good. It will arm every reader with facts and arguments to combat his pro-slavery adversary and overcome him by the force of truth.

A Senator in Low Comedy.

The most ridiculous exhibition ever made by a would-be wise and great man, was that of Senator Douglas at Ottawa, when he devoted the whole of an hour's speech to the "platform of the State of Aurora." That performance, after the exposure of the Senator's attempted forgery, by the Press and Tribune, put the whole State on a broad grin from Galena to Cairo. After all the terrible swelling and vociferation, the bellowing and head-shaking, the pawing and the sawing of the air by the enraged Senator, over those awful resolutions—for the whole thing to be collapsed like a punctured windbag, by a few strokes of the pen, was too much for the gravity of the State, and it is difficult to tell when the Suckers will quit laughing.

This discomfiture of Douglas ought to have taught him a valuable lesson. But he does not seem to have derived the least profit from it. At Jacksonville, the other day, for example, when the people forced him, in spite of his reluctance, to reply to Trumbull's charge respecting the mutilation of the Toombs bill, he gave another exhibition only second in a ludicrous aspect to the famous affair at Ottawa. Like the fellow who was sued for having broken a borrowed kettle, his defence had three points to it. 1. He was justified by past legislation in striking out the submission clause. 2. He did not strike it out. 3. Trumbull was there when he struck it out, and he ought to have put it in again. Or in other words. 1. He never borrowed the kettle. 2. It was broken when he borrowed it. 3. It was sound when he returned it. But a more ludicrous part of the exhibition was his sawing the air for a half hour to prove that the addition which he had made to the 11th section was amended before the bill passed. This was the "State of Aurora" over again. Trumbull had only charged that the addition was there when Douglas reported it back, and Douglas had to admit the truth of the charge, in order to annihilate the man of straw that he had erected for the occasion.

We do not wonder that after giving such mirth-provoking, side-splitting exhibitions as these, Douglas was able to effect a joint arrangement with the circus.

Congressional Nomination.

In the District composed of Stark, Summit and Portage Counties, Ohio, and represented for four years past by Hon. B. F. Leiter, Sidney Edgerton, of Akron, was nominated by the Republicans, on the 7th inst., on the 28th ballot. The contest lay between O. P. Brown, of Ravenna, Judge Humphrey, of Hudson, and Edgerton, of Akron. The best of feeling prevailed, and the election of the nominee, who is a first rate man, is undoubted, by a very large majority.

The Republicans of Ohio count on electing seventeen or eighteen out of the twenty-one members to which that State, is entitled.

Those Letters.

The Times professes to have seen letters from certain Republicans who had despaired of the result of the present canvass. Our Ariel has seen the same letters, and he informs us they are from the half-dozen Republicans who gave in their adhesion to Douglas on his return from Washington. They have "despaired" of Douglas' chances, and bitterly do they rue the day they were deluded into his support.

Deputy Marshals.

We understand that U. S. Marshal Pine has appointed the following gentlemen as his deputies, viz: Iram Nye, Owen Dougherty, A. P. Sharp and John S. Mulliner, Esqrs.

Carroll and Jo Daviess District.—The Republicans of Carroll County have nominated James D'Wolf for Representative in the Legislature, Adam Nase for Sheriff, and Owen Jones for Coroner.

☞ The Douglasites have nominated Wm. S. Moss, of Peoria, for Senator for the 8th Senatorial District, comprising the counties of Peoria, Putnam, Marshall and Woodford.

Peoria and Stark.—The Republicans of the forty-first district have placed in nomination for Representative Thomas C. Moore of Peoria, and R. G. Bruce, of Stark County.

☞ A building known as the "Bazaar" at Davenport, containing about a dozen groggeries, was destroyed by fire the other night. The Gazette says that "water was soon thrown upon the flames, but fortunately without effect."

☞ The Douglasites nominated Major Harris for Congress in the Sixth District, on the 7th inst.

An Illinois Orchard.

Our former fellow citizen K. K. Jones, having driven a successful mercantile business at Manitowoc for several years, last spring realized his rural longings by taking possession of a fine fruit farm in the neighborhood of Quincy, called "The Pines." That he is equally successful in his new occupation, we have the tangible evidence in a basketful of apples of most extraordinary size and beauty. If they were such as tempted Mother Eve, we can understand how difficult it must have been for the old dame to control her longing for "forbidden fruit." Mr. Jones' orchard gave promise in the spring of yielding some fifteen hundred bushels, but since then the "borers" have worked so destructively as to bring down the crop something below that mark. An exterminating war has been waged upon them, however, and next year's crop will probably make amends for the deficiency of the present. Everything succeeds to which our friend Jones applies his vigorous hand and his still more energetic will.

Early Frosts.

Frost has made a very early appearance the present season, and extended over a wide range of country, North and South, East and West. Nearly a month ago it was noted in some localities, and has appeared in two or three instances since. We do not hear that it has done any considerably damage in the West, and the corn crop has, we believe, sustained no injury. How long it may remain unscathed, however, has become a serious question for the farmers, and indeed for all classes of the community, as that is always the most important crop of the West, and is especially this season, when there has been a partial failure of other cereals.

Preparations for the State Fair.

Fair Grounds, Centralia Ill.,
Thursday, Sept 9, 1858.

Friends of the Tribune and Press:—I promised to give you an account of preparations for the fair; and though rather late in the season, my report from the spot may satisfy some of the doubting, and perhaps help them to decide upon making a part of the crowd.

The grounds are well chosen, with prairie and grove in due preparation, and plenty of water at command. The railroad station (for Central City,) is but a few rods from the entrance gate. The Society's structures are all completed, and the private enterprises in a good state of forwardness, and both are on a liberal scale, much better and more expensive than I expected. No danger of hunger, and little if any fear in regard to lodging.

I am particularly pleased with the arrangements of the Centralia Company for feeding the multitude. Around a square of 100 feet, on every side, are arranged two tiers of tables under good board roofs—the kitchens occupying the centre of the square, with three pits, bricked up, each 60 feet by 3½, with gridirons of the full size, of heavy fence wire, supported on iron cross-bars. So much for barbecuing meats and broiling steaks "to a turn." Bread and pastry are contracted for in Chicago, and will be received daily. A Cincinnati steam apparatus is used for cooking vegetables, and large covered boilers are ready for making real Western coffee, with the aroma intact. Twenty-five hundred pounds of Martfeld's Ogle County "premium butter" has been purchased for the table, with plenty of Chicago ice, all the fruits of Egypt, and the other "delicacies of the season," including a whole field of sweet potatoes, said to contain fourteen thousand hills.

Outside the inclosure many structures are going up, with well ventilated, dry and comfortable sleeping berths, and quite respectable arrangements for cheap food.

President Webster and Superintendent John P. Reynolds have been constantly on hand, hard at work for the good of the Society and the credit of their beloved Egypt, and Mr. Secretary Francis has the business office open and one of his clerks already engaged on the entries, and indeed everything appears to be about right; and I cannot doubt the success which all seem to anticipate.

In great haste, your friend,
John A. Kennicott.

Bishop of Chicago.

Editors Press and Tribune:

In the last issue of the Boston Pilot, a Chicago subscriber to that paper undertakes to give utterance to the sentiments of the great body of the faithful. He tells us Bishop Duggan is not only willing but most anxious to become Bishop of Chicago. He tells us Bishop Duggan is the choice of all parties. He must know much of public sentiment to be thus capable of representing it; but we would suggest to the Chicago subscriber of the Boston Pilot to speak for himself and for himself only.

He must be a very interested party, and as such has perhaps assisted the young and inexperienced administrator to fill the Catholic laity with a holy joy and peace, to which, alas! they have too long been strangers. Alas! to the memory of the good Bishop Quarters, the mention of whose name is and will ever be respected in Chicago. He has done nothing for the good of religion. Alas! to the good Bishop Vandevelde, who had to leave this unfortunate Diocese because of the unhappy and insubordinate conduct of "Chicago subscribers to the Boston Pilot." And what shall we say of the respected Bishop of Dora? Let those who were obedient and devoted to him, such as Wm. Dunne, answer this question. Away now with all the past, and good-speed to Bishop Duggan. They were pigmies compared with him. We hope the Provincial Council, now in session in St. Louis, will be inspired by the Holy Ghost to see that his delicacy, his youth and inexperience entirely unfit him for the government of this long-distracted but important Diocese. We emphatically assure the Chicago subscriber to the Boston Pilot, that Bishop Duggan is not the choice of the great body of the faithful lay or clerical. This assertion is made by

One who Knows.

The Seminary at Earlville Blown Up.

Between two and three o'clock on Sunday morning, the 5th inst., the inhabitants of the quiet village of Earlville, La Salle County, were startled from their sleep by a tremendous explosion, which caused the buildings to tremble, and led some to imagine that the day of judgment had come. As soon as daylight permitted an examination into the cause, it was found that the handsome Seminary building had been blown up by some miscreant, all that remained of it being a mass of shapeless ruins. A correspondent of the Ottowa Free Trader, from whose communication we obtain these particulars, adds:

The loss falls heavily on the citizens of Earlville and vicinity. The Seminary cost nearly $6,000, was built of brick, and was an ornament and credit to the place. The first term of the seminary commenced last spring, and under the charge of Mr. Haslett, Principal, and Colton, Assistant, both able teachers, was successful.

Geological Survey of the State.

Prof. A. Worthen, State Geologist, and his able assistant, Prof. J. H. McChesney, are now engaged in their labors of examination in this country. To-day, they commence at Dunleith, and will be occupied on the River section till the close of the season. They will proceed in a skiff from Dunleith to Cairo. One of the above gentlemen informs us, that their work is progressing rapidly, as they will be ready to show by the report on the assembling of the next Legislature.—Galena Advertiser, 11th.

More Bolters From Douglas.

The Yazoo (Miss.) Banner contains an advertisement, setting forth that two negroes belonging to Senator Douglas were confined in the Yazoo jail.

They had run off from the plantation of Mr. Douglas, in Washington county, Mississippi. The Senator should write at once to his overseer to "bring them to their milk."—Exchange.

Douglas Going to Minnesota.

We have heard it asserted, and there seems to be some plausibility in the statement, that as soon as it is apparent that Judge Douglas is defeated in Illinois, he intends to remove to Minnesota, and take his chance for an election as U. S. Senator from this State! Stranger things than that have come to pass.—Minneapolis Gazette.

☞ Dr Jas. Sinclair, an eminent physician died of yellow fever in New Orleans, on the 1st. During the epidemic he was attending the sick, and fell a victim in the discharge of his duty. Dr. V. Deschamps, one of the physicians employed by the "Howard Association," died of the fever the same day.

☞ The St. Louis News states that there is unusual amount of sickness in the counties on the Missouri river. Fevers of various types prevail. In some counties nearly half the people are sick, including the physicians themselves.

The Clay Monument.—Work on the Clay monument at Lexington, Ky., is to be suspended after the 30th of the present month, in consequence of the non-payment of subscriptions. The amount due is said to be $10,000.

THE CITY.

A Fact for Advertisers.

The present regular Daily circulation of the Press and Tribune exceeds nine thousand, and the Weekly edition has reached seventeen thousand five hundred. No Chicago paper approaches half this circulation.

Rally! Rally!!

The Republicans of this city will meet at the Supervisors Room, in the Court House, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 14, to organize for the Fall Campaign. N. B. Judd, President.
B. F. Downing, Secretary.

On Duty.—U. S. Marshal Pine assumed the duties of his office on Saturday last.

Counterfeiter Held.—U. S. Commissioner Magill, yesterday held to bail one Jas. Sproule for counterfeiting the coin of our realm.

Fire.—The alarm of fire on Saturday night was caused by the burning of a wood-shed in the Third District.

Mechanics' Institute Fair.—All the awarding committee will meet at the Institute Hall at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Another Burglary.—On Friday evening. Jackson's hat store on Lake street, near La Salle, was broken into, and goods taken away to the amount of fifteen dollars.

Burglary.—Messrs. Norris & Hyde's News Depot, No. 100 Dearborn street, was entered by burglars on Thursday night and $20 in money taken.

S. S. Celebration.—There is to be a Grand Sunday School celebration at Adrian, Mich., Sept. 16th., 1858, under the superintendence of Rev. A. L. Alford.

Maplewood Institute.—We have received a catalogue and circular of this widely known institution of learning. As a Young Ladies' Seminary it won high fame, as widely, as extended the name and fame of Pittsfield, Mass., where it is located. The Fall term opens Oct. 7th.

Ball Playing.—The return match between the Union and Excelsior Base Ball Clubs comes off on Monday afternoon, 13th inst., on the Prairie Cricket grounds, near Bull's Head. The Madison street omnibuses run to and from the grounds every fifteen minutes.

"Blue Island."—Ernst Reidel, of 135 Randolph street, on Saturday evening astonished our boys by a large "original package," which, when explored, was found to contain Lager. It was the Blue Island variety of Busch & Brandt. Of course it was excellent. "Good wine" may "need no bush" but good lager may be the better for just this Busch.

Mercurial Symptoms.—The following was the range of the thermometer, as per the standard at E. L. O'Hara's Drug store, No. 30 West Randolph street, corner of Canal:

	7 A. M.	12 P. M.	6 P. M.
Monday, 6th	67	69	76
Tuesday, 7th	65	81	78
Wednesday, 8th	65	82	76
Thursday, 9th	75	79	78
Friday, 10th	72	82	77
Saturday, 11th	50	72	67

An Honest Driver.—John Reed, who drives and owns carriage No. 13, found a pocket book in his carriage on Saturday morning last, containing $170 in gold and silver, besides a lot of bank bills and valuable papers. Upon finding the money, Reed traced up the owner and delivered to him the property. There are good men among drivers as well as other classes of citizens, and we are happy to give credit due.

Melancholy and Fatal Accident.—About five o'clock on Friday evening, Mary Jane, daughter of Mr. Long, residing 101 Huron street, was run over while crossing the street on her way home from school, by hackney coach No. 70. Two wheels of the carriage passed over her body and head, causing injuries from which she died soon afterward. The child was five years old.

An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner Hansen, and a verdict of Accidental Death was rendered, the evidence acquitting the driver of blame.

A Gift of Flowers.—There beamed in upon our arid sanctum, that dry realm of copy and proof, a gorgeous and beautiful remembrancer of an absent and distant friend, in the shape of a boquet, the flowers of which, thanks to this day of fleet steamers and flying expresses, seemed to wear the same dews their petals bore when our friend, Dr. A. E. Ames, of Minneapolis, at the Falls of St. Anthony, first plucked them to speed them on their mission. They are not wild flowers, though seemingly wilderness-born, for the Upper Mississippi region, with some, bears that reputation. Not with us, indeed, for we wot how much enterprise and capital and taste and skill have done in reproducing there all that the East knows of luxury or refinement. Here, for instance, is a boquet of superb cultivated flowers, exotics, rich and rare, that any florist would take off his hat to. Thanks to the Doctor. Long may he live to enjoy his garden, the scented gales of which followed his graceful and charming present hither.

Chicago Mechanics' Institute.

EIGHTH ANNUAL FAIR.

NOTES OF THE EXHIBITION.

We resume our notes of that share of the Exhibition in the upper Hall.

Messrs. Brown & Hilliard exhibit their approved and excellent camp bedstead "Favor's" patent as well as a general Favor-ite.

This invention is one for which Mr. Favor one of our citizens, secured a patent sometime since, and the article now is coming into extensive use, standing almost without a competitor in its line as a cheap, compact, portable bedstead for family use, or camp purposes.

A. Ferber exhibits a Patent Window Blind apparatus for hanging and fastening the same.

A. Nugent has a case, and specimens of highly finished Brass Work.

Charles L. Dubois, of No. 63 Dearborn street, exhibits proofs of his skill as a sign painter, and also finely executed water-color paintings.

Sterling P. Rounds shows typographical samples.

G. Leverenz an elegant single harness.

George Barry has several samples and styles of graining and wood-imitations.

F. Binder several styles of Gilt Mouldings.

Julius W. Smith, Paintings of Flowers.

Messrs. Ritter & Rex, Patent Trusses.

D. L. Boone exhibits an elegant table-top of Patent Marbleized Slate, a superb affair.

F. Letz & Co. send samples of their ornamental Iron Castings.

W. N. Stoddard exhibits Trask's Patent Alarm Lock, an affair not designed to be very popular with the mysterious key-hole prowlers, inasmuch as all applications at the key-hole are answered by a vigorous alarm bell, and literally "nothing else."

Within the lock is a series of "sets" which must be adjusted at locking, and when adjusted, the particular key, or any other key, is useless. The advantages of the lock are its simplicity, cheapness and infallible security, thus rendering it desirable for all the uses of locks, from bank vaults or safes, to private dwellings. Mr. Stoddard, at the Fair, has a crowd about him, admiring and charmed by his lock. It is being very generally introduced, and is said to be a decided favorite.

T. B. Bishop, Veterinary Surgeon, exhibits a case of morbid specimens, showing the effects of divers diseases upon the frame of that noble animal the horse.

Our friends the Drs. Quinlans exhibit a case interesting in exhibiting by beautiful preparations, the growth and disappearance of the human teeth, the specimens ranging from the toothless jaw of old age down to that of the embryo.

Fr. Kaempffer Taxidermist has a case of beautifully stuffed birds, and another with a fine specimen of the Ibis.

Adolphe Knell must have been the death-knell of vast numbers of the insect tribes. His cases of beetles and "sich like" do him great credit, and attract much attention.

G. B. Smith exhibits embroidery stamps and stamped work.

Messrs. Childs & Son in addition to their specimens of engraving already spoken of, have a beautiful specimen of their skill in the Die Sinking department of their business, the new "Foster Medal" in solid silver, a beautiful and chaste affair.

Messrs. W. & E. Cook, of No. 315 State street, exhibited a stained glass church window, a figure of St. Paul.

W. D. Merton has on exhibition his Golden Bitters.

J. M. Loomis from his gem of a hat store in Larmon's Block, sends a case of exquisite head gear for masculine humanity from budding boyhood up to broad-brimmed age.

Herman Wolffrau has on exhibition a beautiful and sweet-toned church organ in an oak case. Much admired by visitors for its good looks and sweet powerful tones.

Pianos are exhibited by N. Gould, who has a beautiful Chickering instrument; Julius Bower sends a Boardman & Gray.

E. Sawyer has the "Tremolo Attachment," a most novel and pleasing instrumental effect.

David Kratzer has a new Patent Bedstead, and Sitting as well as Reclining Couch for invalids.

The ladies' department is not as full as in former years, but presents much that is meritorious. There are fewer miraculous bedquilts than we have seen at some country fairs, possibly, and if so a good reason, because female fingers find something better to achieve than the cutting of cloth into infinitesimal fragments for the sole purpose of putting them together again.

Mrs. Francis M. Arnold and Mrs. Paul H. Dennis sends specimens of furniture and picture frames in leather work.

Mrs. N. P. Iglehart a beautiful boquet.

Mrs. M. Walsh, ornamental flowers.

Mrs. A. B. Pillsbury, flower paintings, several specimens.

Miss A. A. Ellingwood, pencil and water-color sketches.

Mrs. Josephine Forbes, Mrs. J. Scoville and Miss Potter, exhibit bed spreads.

Mrs. B. A. Hall exhibits a pair of vases in potichomanie.

Mrs. S. H. Turrill has a polychromatic view.

Miss Emily Lantry sends a tastefully embroidered cape and blanket for infant wear.

Miss Eunice P. Haynes sends several exquisite specimens of bead work. These articles have an interest painfully touching to those of the visitors to the Fair who are made aware that their maker never saw these deftly wrought little tokens, but that her art is the solace of her blind hours, a misfortune borne by the three children of an estimable widow lady of this city. Those to whom the fact is known, and who can appreciate these articles, will do well and reap double reward if they leave little idle time to the fingers that thus employ sunless days.

Mrs. Francis Clark contributes paintings in oil, of animals, fruits, flowers, etc.

Mrs. Matilda Steets has a large gilt framed embroidery of what is certainly a Crewel Parting of two lovers. The piece is called "The Greek Pirate," and certainly however valiant he may be the pirate is worsted in the present encounter. Seriously, however, the piece is a meritorious one of its class, though the class is no favorite of ours. The tints and colors are harmonious, and the general effect good.

"Little Sarah," so called, bore no name of a depositor, but was an interior work of the last named class. To use again a bad pun, such caricatures of innocent, unoffending childhood are the worst description of crewel-ty.

The Messrs. L. and M. King exhibit several excellent samples of embroidery.

Mrs. J. L. Garber has a knit quilt.

Mrs. Scoville a case of muslin artificial flowers, and Mrs. Anna Bayett a rose of wax flowers; also, the latter a white bed-spread quilted in figures.

Md'lle Poncelot has a case of fine millinery.

Mrs. Willey a silk crib quilt.

In the basement of the Hall are heavier articles, kitchen utensils, &c., to only a few of which we can pay our attention to-day.

Messrs. Rawson & Bateham have a highly creditable exhibition of their sawed shingles of pine, poplar, cedar, and butternut.

Geo. W. Prickett displays an elegant parlor grate.

J. H. Perkins celebrated Steam Heater a warming and ventilating is on exhibition in a neat model presented by T. E. Blackall, the agent. This method of heating has been much approved. It is now in use in some of the finest churches and private residences of the city. The principle is to do away with the heating by radiation from a hot iron surface, and instead a chamber suitably enclosed with brick work is filled with heated steam. Through this chamber pass a large number of tin tubes, of small diameter, opening freely on the air without the building, and the air passing through them becoming hot from the steam heated chamber rises into the body of the church or is carried by conductors to any part of the building. The heat this generated is mild, equable, and fresh, not de-oxygenated by contact with red hot iron, but possessing all the known agreeable qualities of steam heat, without the trouble and expense, to say nothing of the objections, arising from the common system of steam pipes. Mr. Blackall is the agent at No. 75 Clark street.

H. K. Rutan exhibits superb samples of fruit and rich fruit Syrups for Soda.

L. S. Abbott sends samples of pure honey in "original packages."

Cyrus Gibbs, of this city, has on exhibition his Patent Queen Bee Hive, with honey and honey makers within the same. The principle is eminently Bee Saving as well as Honey Making. Mr. Gibbs' samples of honey were submitted to the Tasting Committee, and gave universal satisfaction.

Messrs. Brown & Kent have on exhibition their Portable Oven and Complete Cooking Stove, in what we had almost termed a Pocket Edition. It is a stove within an oven, and hence enclosing its kettle and boiler holes, saving heat and fuel, and the discomfort of steam and vapor in the room, and the evil of overheated apartments. In the small space enclosed the housewife may broil, and boil, and bake, while nothing is seen without, save a neat closed stove. The inventors claim for it a wonderful and notable economy of fuel, and quick returns on the same. It attracts much attention at the Fair, especially from the ladies.

Messrs. Chase & Co., 14 South Water street, make an attractive display of bags of all kinds, seamless and sewed, plain and printed, occupying the centre of the basement hall. These bags are of superior quality. The printed bags are branded in a surpassingly tasteful and beautiful manner. Hay and Grain protectors are also exhibited by this house. We can confidently recommend the use of these grain stack covers, their practical utility having been established beyond a doubt. A curiosity in the shape of a twenty-five bushel seamless bag hangs or rather yawns adjacent.

Messrs. Beecher & Powell exhibit the Family Gas Works, or rather the apparatus for manufacturing the illumination of the house from the waste accumulations of grease in the kitchen. The plan is that invented by J. H. Smith, and we have before spoken of it in terms of commendation. The apparatus is simple, cheap and effective, being a small stove, through which passes an iron cylinder, in which the grease, fat, or oil is exposed to a high heat, and passes as a gas of excellent quality at once to the gas ometer.

One of pound grease will supply the gas consumed by a "three-foot" burner, for thirteen hours, a cost of less than half a dime at the outside figure. The space of eight feet square is all that is required for the apparatus. The gas, which requires no purifying, is excellent, and the light pure, strong and brilliant. The system has been introduced into the suburban residences of well known citizens in this vicinity, and seems to bid fair to remove the evil with city residents connected with "Living in the country" the loss of the familiar and brilliant gas burner. Messrs. Beecher & Powell, of No. 74 State-street, have greatly improved and modified the application of this excellent and novel principle, and their share of throwing light upon the evening proceedings of the Fair is universally approved and successful.

On Monday our notes of the Fair will be resumed, for which occasion we reserve reference to the Photographic department, which is exceedingly rich and full, and also the department of Machinery, less full than could have been desired.

The whole number of entries in the Fair is four hundred and two.

The exhibition will remain open during the present week.

A train has been dispatched to the scene of the disaster, to render all possible assistance.

LATER—THE PARTICULARS.

Steubenville, O., Sept. 11.—The express train going West yesterday evening on the Steubenville & Indiana Railroad, met with a serious accident, thirteen miles west of this place. In crossing a bridge the express car and rear of the engine jumped the track and knocked out some of the main timbers, which caused the bridge to suddenly give way. The baggage master's and front passenger car went down with the bridge, some ten or twelve feet, while the rear end of the hind car remained on the abutment. The first car was almost completely broken from its fastenings on the rear car.

The following are the persons injured:—J. Mooney, conductor, head severely cut; Byron Roach of Louisville, both legs broken; E. J. Cornell, baggage master, wrist sprained and badly bruised; Rev. Mr. Watson of Amsterdam, ankle sprained; James Jacobs of Maysville, Ky., slightly bruised; Andrew Anderson of Harrison county, slightly bruised; Mrs. Wainwright of New Jersey, slightly injured; D. C Gill of Dayton Mrs. Meredith of Xenia, Miss Lyon of Elizabethtown, N. P., Dr. Allen of Belleville, Ark., Rev. S. J. Humphrey and lady of Newark, Ohio, W. H. Moore of Milton, Ind., John P. Draper of Danville, Ill., Capt. W. T. Barr of Pittsburg, Oliver Ormsby of Vevay, Ind., and many others, who declined giving their names, were severely bruised and otherwise injured.

James Flemming of Zanesville was fatally injured.

Meeting of Railroad Presidents.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—The meeting of the Presidents of the principal through lines between the East and the West, is now in session here, to adjust, if possible, the difficulties of fare, etc., that have caused so much feeling between the several companies. Nothing definite has yet transpired respecting the action of the Presidents. The agreement of the fifth of July has been gone over, and mostly agreed to. The main point of difference is relative to the rates of all rail and water carriages, which have been settled to have separate rates where water carriage forms part of the route.

A recess has been taken to allow the Freight Agents to agree upon rates. If they agree upon old rates, and they are approved by the Presidents, the main difficulty will be overcome. The final result will not be arrived at before midnight, if then. The prospects are good for a satisfactory adjustment and return to fair rates.

News Via New York.

New York, Sept. 11.—We have Porto Cabello advices of August 27th. General Monagas and family and Gutirat are to have passports out of the Republic. The Diaro Mercantile thinks these arrangements will restore harmony between the factions concerned.

The papers give the name of the house suspended yesterday Pifkin & Ironsides.

We learn from a private source from Liverpool, that the negotiations of the bonds of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, of Ohio, are completed by the President, Gen. Ward, through the agency of Jas. McHenry.

The Mobile & Ohio Railroad has also brought their negotiation to a successful issue.

The steamships North Star and New York left to-day; the former for Southampton and Havre, with 114 passengers and $193,000 in specie; the latter for Bremen with a good complement of passengers.

Celebration of Perry's Victory.

Cleveland, Sept. 11.—Eight steamers and one schooner load of passengers from Lake ports, numbering six thousand persons, celebrated Perry's Victory at Put-in Bay yesterday. The United States steamer Michigan was present.

A prayer was made by Rev. Mr. Duffield, of Philadelphia. Speeches were made by Dr. Parsons, of Providence, Rhode Island, surgeon of Perry's flag ship; Capt. Champlin, of the Scorpion; Mayor Starkweather, of Cleveland; Cooke, of Sandusky; Mason, of Toledo and Wilkins, of Detroit.

Gov. Chase was President of the day. J. R. Giddings and Senator Wade were present. A Monumental Association was formed, of which Hon. Lewis Cass is President.

Another Railroad Accident.

Boston, Sept. 11.—The 2.30 P. M. train for Fall River ran into a freight train yesterday, near New Braintree, slightly injuring James Simmons, Esq., Benjamin Gleason, baggage master, Charles F. Lathrop of Easton, passenger, and Thomas E. Belcher, fireman. Three freight cars were badly smashed. A number of cattle were badly wounded, and several hogsheads of whale oil stove in. The loss is about $10,000.

The Atlantic Cable.

Trinity Bay, Sept. 10.—Mr. De Santy, the Electrician in charge the Atlantic Telegraph, at this place, declines to make any statement relative to the cable for publication, beyond the positive assurance to the agent of the Associated Press, that there are only temporary difficulties of an electrical nature, and that there is no reason whatever for the rumor that the cable had parted.

Cyrus W. Field.

Buffalo, Sept. 11.—Cyrus W. Field arrived at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. He leaves for Toronto, Tuesday the 14th inst., en route for Montreal and Quebec.

A Woman Shot.

Persons afflicted with the Fever and Ague should not spare either time, trouble, or expense to procure Dr. HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED BITTERS, whose beneficent effects upon the human system has been clearly proved to those who have been stricken down in a short space of time by this dreadful curse, whose cheeks are wan and meagre, and whose nights are sleepless and fretful, and whose eyes are dim and sunken, with death staring them in the face, this compound must prove a blessing; snatching them as it were from the very mouth of the grave. None can know its true value until they have tested it. When all others have failed, these Bitters have restored the sufferers to pristine health. Their popularity in all the Western and Southern parts should introduce them to all families.

Trying to Conceal the Issue.

On Friday last we copied from the Richmond Enquirer the ultimatum of the slavery propagandists. These gentry having succeeded in breaking down the Missouri Compromise, in throwing open all the Territories now belonging, or that may hereafter belong, to the United States, to the incursions of slavery, and having obtained a decision from a partisan Supreme Court that the federal Constitution establishes slavery in all the Territories, and that neither Congress nor the Territorial Legislatures have the power to exclude it,—they require but one thing more to render their triumph complete, and give to slavery the entire and peaceable control of all the Territories. That "one thing" is "A FEDERAL SLAVE-CODE FOR THE TERRITORIES." A demand that Congress shall enact such a code is the ultimatum which we copied from the Richmond Enquirer on Friday morning last, coupled with the declaration that it must constitute the issue between the Democratic party and its opponents in the contest of 1860, and that the nominee of the Charleston Convention must be unconditionally pledged to it.

Mr. Douglas has given out through his organs that he will be a candidate for nomination before the Charleston Convention. The Richmond Enquirer is known to be one of his organs, and the inference is not only reasonable, but it is entitled to all the weight of an absolute certainty, that unless Mr. Douglas had already signified his willingness to give the required pledge, the Enquirer would not be the first to declare that the giving of it would be insisted upon as a condition precedent to a nomination. These facts and deductions we brought out on Friday morning last. On the following day the Times contained a significant article upon the subject of "Present Issues," in which the people of Illinois are gravely assured, among other things, that "it is infinitely more important for them to know what are the present issues before them," than it is to consider the issues that will be upon them two years hence. The entire article does not contain the first allusion to what the Richmond Enquirer expressly declares shall be the issue in 1860. The known relations between Mr. Douglas and the Enquirer would render it incumbent upon the home organ of that gentleman to relieve him from an implied acquiescence in the proposed issue, if he is in reality opposed to it. This the Times is very careful not to do. Although the article in that paper of Saturday last was written with express reference to the stand taken by the Enquirer, yet it is entirely devoted to an exhortation to the people of Illinois to support Senator Douglas now, without any reference to what his position will be in 1860. The Times' silence on the subject of a federal slave code, under these circumstances, is an implied acquiescence on the part of Senator Douglas in the measure.

Indeed Mr. Douglas is bound to accept the pro-slavery side of the issue, or else repudiate his entire political action for the last five years. A federal slave code is a logical sequence of the Calhoun dogmas respecting the federal constitution and of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case, both of which Senator Douglas indorses. The Constitution, according to these authorities, carries slavery into the Territories by virtue of its guarantees. If this be so, then nothing is clearer than that the citizen who takes his slave property into the Territories is entitled to ample protection in the possession of that property. Mr. Douglas adopts and endorses the premise; he only waits to be once more secure in his seat in the Senate, to adopt and enforce the conclusion also. Says the Times, on the subject of this Dred Scott decision:

> "The Supreme Court decided, and we support the decision most heartily, that so far as Federal laws operate in the Territories of the United States, slave property is on the same footing as any other class of property: and we agree, too, that the Territorial Legislature is incompetent to enact laws excluding slave property."

This says the Times, "is the opinion of Senator Douglas." Now read further what the Supreme Court says necessarily follows from the admission that "slave property is on the same footing in the Territories as any other property." We quote from the decision in the Dred Scott case:

> "If the Constitution recognizes the right of property of the master in a slave, and makes no distinction between that description of property and other property owned by a citizen, no tribunal, acting under the authority of the United States, whether LEGISLATIVE, executive or judicial, has a right to draw such a distinction, or DENY to it the benefit of the provisions and guarantees which have been provided for the protection of private property against the encroachments of the Government." "And no word," adds the Court, "can be found in the Constitution which gives Congress a greater power over slave property, or which entitles property of that kind to less protection. The only power conferred, is THE POWER COUPLED WITH THE DUTY OF GUARDING AND PROTECTING THE OWNER IN HIS RIGHTS."

Here is ample authority for all that the Richmond Enquirer claims, viz: that Congress has the power to guard and protect the owner of slave-property in his rights, and that it has not the right to deny such a slave code for the Territories as will prove adequate to protect the right of property in slaves. We would like to be informed how Mr. Douglas, who indorses the doctrines promulgated in the Dred Scott decision, can do otherwise than sustain the issue raised by the Enquirer, unless, as we said before, he first repudiates his entire political action for the last five years. In fact, Mr. Douglas may be regarded as fully committed to all the Enquirer demands; and the question of providing a slave code for the Territories is as much an issue of the present campaign as it will be in the Presidential campaign of 1860. The Times cannot conceal the issue, however much it may slur it over. The people of Illinois both read and think. Mr. Douglas must then face the music now on what the Times says is to be an issue of 1860. We elect a Senator for six years, and he will only have served one year of his term before the issue will be practically upon us. Speak out Mr. Douglas!

The Steam Engine Moving Northward.

We had a call a few days since from Rev. J. P. Bardwell, who is connected with the Missionary Station among the Ojibways on Lake Winibigoshish, in Northern Minnesota. This lake is situated in latitude 47½ north, and forms the most northerly bend of the Mississippi. Something like a year ago a number of our liberal citizens contributed to purchase a small steam engine and sawmill from the well known establishment of Gates, Warner & Chalmers. We were deeply interested in the facts in regard to the uses made of this engine, as stated by Mr. Bardwell, but we prefer to lay them before our readers in the language of the veteran Missionary himself, taken from a letter addressed to Mr. Warner in July last:

> I found the Missionaries all in comfortable health. I had my steam engine and machinery brought through to this place last winter. The Missionaries set it up, and have sawed out some forty thousand feet of lumber. Our little engine will cut two thousand feet per day easily. The brethren have built a small boat that will carry about six tons of freight, and have the engine now in it. They have made three trips with the boat around to Leech Lake for supplies. You may have seen some account of the steamboat North Star on the Upper Mississippi, running as far up Pokegoma Falls, which was puffed as a great enterprise, but we are ahead of the North Star, and can run from Pokegoma Falls to Cass Lake, about 100 miles. This lake is a beautiful sheet of water, about 15 miles across. When the boat was first launched, the Missionaries gave the Indians a free ride around the lake on it. It was to them a great curiosity, as very few of them had ever seen anything of the kind before, and had no conception of Ishkoda Mabekwan, (fire vessel) as they call it. It is a great improvement upon bark canoe navigation on these lakes, and has saved us already more than the expense of building the boat. We shall have the machinery in the mill again in a few days. If those friends in your city, and other places, who contributed so liberally to secure this improvement, could realize the immense benefit it is, and will be, to the Mission and Indians, I am very sure they would consider it money well invested, and never wish to withdraw it. We not only use our machinery for navigating these lakes and rivers, and sawing boards, but one of the Missionaries has invented a very simple machine to attach to it, for sawing out shingles, another for sawing stove wood, and will, ere long, have a turning lathe. The mill makes as smooth lumber as any I ever saw. In addition to the advantages above named, I think the steam engine will have an important moral influence upon the people, and stimulate many of them to industry and enterprise. The Indians around this lake will raise, this year, about 2,000 bushels of potatoes, where they have never before raised as many hundreds, and considerable corn in addition. Their gardens look finely, and most of them are well attended. Their land is covered with a heavy growth of timber, and they have no means of clearing and breaking it, without help. The Mission school is small this Summer, as we have no dwelling houses completed, and cannot take many children into the Mission families. We are weak-handed, and as the Missionaries, in addition to all their other labors, and the care of their families, must cut their own logs, saw their lumber, make shingles and build their own houses, it must take considerable time to get things fairly in operation. But we will not despise the day of small things, but hope for enlargement in the future, assured that "in due time we shall reap if we faint not."

Thus the steam engine is moving northward, keeping even pace with our Christian civilization. In the opinion of this excellent missionary, it not only ministers to the physical comfort of man, but it infuses a healthy moral tone among the people. There can be no doubt that this opinion is correct. While it is the exponent of energy and enterprise, it affords a powerful stimulus to these cardinal virtues.

When in Minnesota, in June, 1857, we heard that a project was on foot to carry across through Big Stone Lake the machinery for a steamer to be placed this season on the Red River of the North. We have not heard whether the plan has been carried out; but within five years it may confidently be predicted that parties will leave Chicago for a summer tour down the Red River of the North, through lake Winnipeg and up the Saskatchewan, or the Assiniboin, to the base of the Rocky Mountains. There is a vast rich country Northwest of Minnesota that will, within a very few years, become as familiar to Chicago merchants as Minnesota is now. Put us down for that trip, steamer or no steamer, at our earliest possible convenience.

Walter Savage Landor Convicted of the Foulest Slander---The Fame of a Long Life Tarnished.

The venerable Walter Savage Landor, now in his eighty-third year, has been tried by an English Court, and mulcted in £1,000, for slandering Mrs. Yescombe, the wife of a respectable clergyman, in whose family he had been very intimate, during his residence at Bath, a period of some years. In the same family resided a young lady, whose removal to Cheltenham, at the suggestion of the Yescombes, appears to have roused the old man's wrath. He at once assailed Mrs. Y. with very gross charges; that she was guilty of perjury, false pretences in procuring money and actual theft. A great scandal was caused by this outbreak of venom, and Mr. John Forster went to Bath and succeeded in getting Landor's signature to an entire retraction of the slanders. But not content, as soon as Forster was out of the way, Landor returned to his wallowing in the mire of personal detraction, and wrote several anonymous letters, which, the London Times says, "contained such filth that one may well wonder how the ideas could occur to a human brain." The traduced party now had recourse to the courts of law, and Mr. Landor was brought to trial—the letters proved, the libels admitted, and the only defence offered was the extreme age of the defendant, and his education at a period when such dirty lampoons passed for the essence of wit. But this did not save him from the consequences of his "indiscretion." A verdict of $1,000 damages was rendered. But truly, remarks the Times, "this is the slightest portion of the result. How ineffable is the disgrace to a man of Mr. Landor's ability and reputation at the close of a long life to be mixed up with so disgraceful a transaction! A slanderer, and a slanderer of a lady!—a writer of anonymous letters, and these letters reeking with the foulest odors of the dirtiest stews—a violator of his pledged word—who is it to whom these words must now be applied?—

'Who would not weep, if Atticus were here?'"

Good Sense and Right Feeling at the South.

The capture of the Africans on board the Echo has given rise to no little discussion at the South as to the wisdom and propriety of reopening the African Slave-trade. Many leading Southern journals are in favor of it, but we are glad, however, to see that the Charleston Courier, a journal published in the hot-bed of slavery ultraism, has the sense and the courage to show up the proposition in its proper light. It sets out with the assumption that a revival of the Slave-trade is impracticable under our existing Constitution and legislation, and in the present state of public sentiment throughout the Union; but if it were practicable, it would set its face against it for the following reasons:

> 1st, Because it is inhuman and brutalizing; 2d, it would deteriorate, barbarize, and heathenize, or supersede, our now civilized and Christian slaves; 3d, it would brutalize ourselves; 4th, it would abolitionize the border Slave States; 5th, it would ruinously impair the value of slaves; 6th, it would fill Northern pockets at the expense of Southern interests; 7th, the very agitation of the question is calculated to distract and divide the South.

He entered the Bank of America as one of the Directors in the year 1812, at the same time with Mr. Stephen Whitney, who is the only one now living of the first Board, consisting of eighteen members.

DOUGLAS AT JACKSONVILLE.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Sept. 7, 1858.

Douglas was here yesterday. For five or six weeks past his followers have been making the most tremendous and desperate efforts all over six or eight counties to get up an immense demonstration. They had promised their idol fifteen or twenty thousand persons for an audience. Money, raised abroad and at home, had been lavished by thousands. The weather was the finest possible, and every circumstance favorable. Yet after every effort, they were unable to get together more than five or six thousand, though some of them estimate it as high as eight. They admit that one-third of the number were Anti-Douglas men, while impartial observers have thought that nearly one half of the audience were for Lincoln. And this, although Douglas at great expense had got delegations here from Springfield, and about every other town within fifty miles distance. Douglas' chances hereabouts are pretty desperate, and hence the most frantic and reckless expedients had been resorted to in order to bring together a vast crowd. They did us a great service by providing means of conveyance for all of our people—men and women, boys and girls—whom they could persuade to join them in the journey and the fun and frolic. In this they did us a great benefit, for it is generally felt that Douglas here has injured himself and his cause. Democrats who still support him, generally say that he made the poorest speech they ever heard him make; and while they boast of the crowd, are ashamed of the low demagogism and want of manliness, honor and truth displayed by their leader. Hence it is difficult to get them to say a word about the speech. Many of his most respectable followers left him before he finished, in disgust. The crowd was singularly wanting in all enthusiasm, and, owing to the great number of Anti-Douglas men present, or to some other cause, was tolerably quiet and orderly. When Mr. Douglas arrived in the forenoon, about eleven o'clock, he rode around the square in an open carriage, bareheaded, in the hot sun, bowing and waving a white handkerchief; but the thousands of people assembled upon the sidewalks and at the doors and windows, preserved an ominous silence. Not a single cheer was heard. An Irishman riding behind Douglas, and well filled with whisky, several times cried "Hooray for Doog las!" but was only laughed at for his pains. The Little Giant went to his hotel quite crest-fallen and discouraged. Considering that Douglas lived here for years when he commenced his career as a politician, the coolness of our people towards him at the present time is terribly expressive, and is felt by him keenly. The friends of his early life alienated and disgusted, defeat stares him in the face. A consciousness of this seemed to oppress him all the time he was here.

His speech consisted of the usual slang of his former harangues about abolitionism, negro equality, negro citizenship, amalgamation, and forty other "niggerisms" he imputed to Lincoln and his party, and very little else. He told his audience that Frank Blair wanted to free all the negroes in Missouri to turn them loose in Illinois to be made citizens and our equals! He made a most miserable, dodging, pettifogging plea in reply to Trumbull's charge about the Toombs bill, and then loudly boasted he never dodged any thing! His own followers were not at all satisfied with his defence of himself, and said Trumbull had shown much stronger proof than Douglas did. He boasted that he had fought the battle against Lecompton and defeated it unaided and alone! You may easily imagine from the sample I have given you, that Douglas injured himself and his cause with all the intelligent and candid portion of his audience! His followers felt it! The leaders here were dispirited, and called his speech the poorest he had ever made. They announced a grand meeting for night, but before that time their courage forsook them, and they did not appear. More than fifteen hundred people did meet, however, and were addressed by John L. McConnell, the leader of the Buchanan party here, in a speech of great power, and which completely opened the eyes of many of Douglas' followers as to the character of their leader and his pitiable position. Col. McConnell completely tore to pieces the speech Douglas had made to the same audience during the day. The Douglas leaders here, who all fear the Colonel, are mad and dismayed at the havoc he has made. Everybody is laughing at them; and they are cursing themselves, McConnell and everything else. We have "feelins" for them. Lincoln will be here on the 27th, and will draw a tremendous crowd. Frank Blair will also be on hand and will speak for himself. The ball is rolling. The people's cause is gaining every hour. VERITAS.

Parson Brownlow's Argument for Slavery.

Parson Brownlow's forte is a skillful use of the language of vituperation. He is a male termagent, and nothing delights him so much as an opportunity to scold at somebody or something. This characteristic of his has given his portion of the debate with Rev. Mr. Pryne at Philadelphia a certain spiciness, but he advances no new argument. He says, as all the pro-slavery divines say, that the Bible sustains slavery—that it is a divine institution—and then brings a railing accusation against New England and the Puritans. Here is a portion of what he said on Tuesday evening last, as condensed by the Philadelphia Bulletin:

> The New England States had never been particularly engaged in the slave trade. No, sir-ee. Their virtuous and puritanical efforts were directed to slave-stealing. They opened a slave depot in the virtuous and liberty-loving city of Boston, near where the Franklin House now stands. But they found that slave labor didn't pay in the sterile soil of Yankee land, and they sold their slaves to the South. The first negro-stealers were New England people. Hartford, Providence, Bristol, and other towns—whose extreme blue laws fined a man for kissing his wife on Sunday, received large numbers of slaves direct from the coast of Africa; while in Boston some 2,000 were received on consignment, directly stolen from the coast of Africa.
>
> Among the prominent Abolition preachers was Rev. Dr. Olin. Dr. Olin came to Georgia from the North in the character of a school teacher. He came, and was kindly received by Bishop Andrews. He prospered, and ultimately married an estimable Georgia lady who owned a goodly number of slaves. What does our reformer do? Why, he cashes the slaves and then returns to the North, and when Bishop Andrews was arraigned before a synod on the charge of marrying a widow lady who owned some slaves, Dr. Olin, who had become a minister, stood up upon the floor, spoke against his benefactor, and actually cast his vote in favor of his expulsion.
>
> The remainder of Mr. Brownlow's hour was devoted to showing the character, as he viewed it, of the Northern Abolition leaders.

Tremendous Conflagration---$200,000 Destroyed.

Last Saturday afternoon the fireman of Cook & Sargent's Bank built a fire in the furnace of that splendid building with all his usual care, and of course with every precaution against accident. The furnace, by which, through the aid of steam pipes, the whole building is heated, is so protected against all ordinary accidents, that it would have seemed impossible anything but design could have led to the terrible destruction of property which followed the lighting of the fire in this furnace last Saturday afternoon. Yet we do not want it supposed for a moment that we cast any reflections or suspicions upon the fireman, who bears an excellent character, and could have had no possible motive in applying an incendiary torch to the property of his employers. But the fact is a fact, that in a short time after the fire was lighted in the furnace, the flames communicated, and property was destroyed to the amount of $200,000, and no insurance.

The particulars of the conflagration are about as follows, and we will at once drop deception, and say that the property destroyed was $200,000 of Florence bills. Messrs. Cook & Sargent last Saturday afternoon, in the presence of a number of citizens, who satisfied themselves fully as to the amount, burnt up $200,000 of their Florence bills. Nearly all of these notes bore the appearance of having been in long and active use. The destruction of so large an amount, proves that this firm have been very rapidly withdrawing Florence money from circulation, and that they withdrew it with no intention of putting it out again. We hope the enemies of Florence will receive some consolation by this destruction of bills. It does seem a shame, however, that when everybody wants money so much, such a quantity as this should be burnt up before our eyes.—Davenport Gazette.

RIOT—MAN SHOT.—On the occasion of a marriage at Mr. Ryan's, on last Thursday evening, a company of boys and young men came around the house after dark, and, by ringing bells, blowing horns, beating old tin pans, firing guns, yelling, &c., &c., annoyed the family and wedding party almost beyond endurance. At one time, while one of the guests—Samuel Archer—was remonstrating with them, some one of their company slipped up and shot him in the thigh, inflicting a severe flesh wound, which will prevent him from attending to his usual business for several weeks.

We learn that the rioters kept up their disturbance during almost the entire night, during which window glass was broken and a bee-hive robbed, they demanding $2 for their highly entertaining services! In common parlance, this is called a charivari, and is regarded by some as very fine sport, but in law it is nothing less than riot, and subjects the perpetrators to heavy punishment.—Schuyler Citizen, 8th.

THE LATE FIRE AT MAQUON.—The Times, of that place, says the entire row of buildings extending from Mr. Penniwitt's shop to the street above, was consumed. The loss, as near as we can learn, is about as follows: J. G. Hamrick, $2,000; A. M. Maple, $1,500; W. N. Bell, $500; Thomas W. Campbell, $150; D. Capps, $600—making in all a loss of $4,550.

Fox River Improvement.

The Neenah Conservator contains the following notice of the present condition of the Fox River Improvement:

> Navigation between Lake Winnebago and Green Bay is now in perfect order. The water in the river is as low as it was at any time last season, still there is an abundance for the largest boats with full loads of freight, and the locks and canals are all in fine condition. The steam dredge Gov. Seymour left Menasha the 22d inst., for Portage City, to assist in completing the work at that point. When completed (which will be this Fall) it will constitute one of the most important thoroughfares in the country.

Heidelberg and its Surroundings---A Famous Old Castle---Student Life---&c., &c.

HEIDELBERG, Aug. 1, 1858.

I have already been more than two months in Heidelberg, and during this time have become initiated in the life of German students. Before taking up this subject, it may perhaps be interesting to you to know something of this place and its surroundings. Heidlberg is one of the most beautifully, but at the same time unfavorably, situated towns in Germany. The gracefully sloping hills that rise like walls of defence on either side, the castle, a noble ruin, overlooking the town, the Neckar, a swift stream, giving life to the scenery, constitute its chief attractions; but every west wind drives the clouds into this narrow valley, where a cloudless sky and clear weather are blessings rarely enjoyed. The castle is the first object of strangers' admiration. Its walls display many different styles of architecture, combining the strength of a fortress with the fantastic decorations of a palace. At every angle is a strong tower, as firm as the rock itself, and the façade is covered with elaborate cornices, pilasters, small statues of knights and other superfluous ornaments, so common during the Elizabethan age. It has been repeatedly bombarded, sacked and burnt, and as often repaired; one of its towers has been blown up, another destroyed by time and warfare, so that it now stands precisely in a state most picturesque as a ruin, and interesting in an historical point of view. Its principal treasure is an enormous tun, centuries old, which, in the good times long agone, held 800 hogsheads of wine, that gave strength and courage to all Heidelberg in time of need or war. This monster is now empty, and is daily visited by many an Englishman hunting for sights, under the guidance of his "Red Book." From the towers a charming view may be enjoyed, including the Neckar Valley, and a broad plain as level as a floor, in which the Rhine may be seen, marching nobly along its winding course, here and there sending back a ray of sunlight. Beyond are the Haardt Mountains limiting the view, and hundreds of thriving villages give variety to the intervening space. In the castle court, concerts are occasionally given for charitable purposes. A few days ago I witnessed such an entertainment. Five thousand persons were present. There were about two hundred singers from Heidleberg and the neighboring towns, persons of all classes, gentlemen, mechanics and students. They sang principally national songs, with much feeling and more correctness than could be expected from two hundred persons unaccustomed to singing in concert. These meetings occur frequently in Germany—in some places periodically. They help foreigners to appreciate the popular flow of feeling, the patriotism that exists among the Germans for a land which, though divided into petty kingdoms and dukedoms, is still united by a common spirit. The garden that surrounds the castle is the favorite promenade of the denizens of Heidelberg. During the afternoon and evening a band of music is stationed in the centre near a small public house, where group of ladies may be seen, knitting, embroidering, and conversing in that comfortable way known only to German ladies; crowds of students drinking beer, smoking long pipes and talking loud, and here and there an inquisitive stranger with an eye for everything new or picturesque. The young ladies meanwhile (of whom there is by no means a scarcity) are walking in the shaded alleys or on the terraces, coquetting with hot-headed students, as young damsels in University towns will, notwithstanding the wise parental instructions that they receive daily. The people of Heidelberg have many other places of resort which I will not describe, as they differ little from this: the Molkerkur, the Konigsstuhl above the castle, the Philosophers' Walk opposite, and the entire Valley of the Neckar, unfolding new and more charming scenes at every turn. There is nothing grand in the scenery, but it is in the highest degree pleasing. The hills are thickly covered with terraces of vines and forests, sacredly preserved from the destroyer's axe. In whatever direction you go, you find something to please the eye; an extensive panoramic view, or a quiet rural scene.

The Heidelberg University is one of the oldest in Germany, founded in 1386. The number of students is about seven hundred. For law and medical students it has not its equal. Wild tales of student life have been circulated, which though mainly true, are somewhat exaggerated. It is not unnatural that seven hundred students, placed in daily intercourse with one another, for the first time in their lives free, should be guilty of some youthful follies. They have, most of them, previously studied nine years in preparatory schools and gymnasia, so that when they enter the University they are as far advanced as American students when they leave college. Here they are their own masters; they may fulfill their duties or not as they feel disposed; all that is required of them is to pass an examination at the end of their course.

The instruction is given entirely by means of lectures. Each student hears from one to six daily, usually writes down the principal heads at the time, and afterwards expresses at length the ideas that he has obtained from each lecture. German students who expect to occupy government offices are obliged to study thirteen years; nine in elementary schools, four in the University; foreigners are at liberty to make their own choice of studies. The noisiest and wildest of the students are those that join the Corps and Verbindungen or Clubs, about two hundred in number. Each society has its colors, and coat of arms; the former are displayed in their caps, the latter on their porcelain pipes. It is to a foreigner a strange sight to see groups of students with small caps, that are with difficulty kept in their places, and each different from the other in color, red, white, green, blue, &c. The object of these societies is to kill time, to live in as jolly a way as possible, and to fight duels. They meet two or three times during the week, spend the evening in drinking beer, singing and joking. They seek inspiration in unnumbered quarts of beer, and clouds of tobacco smoke. The laws for drinking are strictly executed; he who disobeys them by refusing to drink when the chairman proposes, falls into disgrace. Freshmen are treated with the greatest severity. They require friends' assistance more than once on their homeward way, before they become masters of the art. The initiated drink twenty glasses, holding nearly a quart each, during an evening, without losing their reason, but not without dulling it for their lifetime. As a natural consequence, the best drinkers are the largest corporeally, but the weakest mentally. The members meet also daily to practice in fencing. Whenever they have a disagreement with another society, a challenge is sent, and a day appointed for a settlement of difficulties. Several men, usually five or six, are chosen from each of the two Corps or Verbindungen, to fight, without personal enmity, for the general cause. Duelling is forbidden by law in the town, therefore the combatants with their friends leave at an early hour for some neighboring village, where the necessary preparations have already been made, and first taking care to blind the eyes of the police, or send them on the wrong track. The weapon used is the rapier, so sharp that the slightest blow makes by no means an agreeable wound. Arms, neck and eyes are covered; the rest of the head is left exposed. They are obliged to fight fifteen minutes, resting-time not included, unless one is disabled. It is indeed wonderful that the consequences are not more serious. The oldest men in Heidelberg may count on their fingers the number of deaths caused by duelling during their lives. Many receive deep wounds on the cheeks and on the head, but the greater part escape with but slight scatches, easily healed. Besides these, many private duels are fought, on account of international insults. In such cases the contest is much more earnest, and certainly more justifiable.* Duelling is certainly carried too far, still it cannot be denied that it has some good results. It gives one more self-reliance, and makes one feel the responsibility of his actions. Society takes a higher tone, and there is an end of raillery and blackguardism, so common among students, when every man is obliged to answer for his conduct.

The anniversary of a Corps is an important day in Heidelberg. On such occasions all the livery-horses in town are collected together, four or six being attached to each carriage. The members have small flags attached to their caps, and display high-legged jockey boots with spurs. The procession marshalled by a half dozen chosen men, dressed in bright colors, and armed with rapiers, moves up the village to a village six miles distant. There they remain until the next morning, drinking, carousing, in honor of the occasion, and perhaps obtaining a few hours' sleep. The following day is spent in like manner, with only a change of place. They float down the Neckar in a flat boat, rousing the natives by their noisy drinking songs, dine in a neighboring town, and terminate their long carousal by a torch-light procession. The crowded streets are cleared by a phalanx of hard-fisted workmen, a body of armed students follows, then comes a band of music, then the students, two by two, with a row of torch-bearers on either side. Thus they march through the town, and returning make a great bonfire in front of the University buildings.

These are by no means unusual occurrences. Nearly every day we hear of excursions and duels, and as often see unlucky fellows with newly bound wounds. This has been the course of student life for centuries, and it is useless to demand reasonable conduct of wild youth, when first the reins are placed in their hands.

Yours truly, FRED. W. MATTESON.

* It is no uncommon thing for a student to have been engaged in twenty-five or thirty duels, as principal, in the course of four or five years.

Meeting of the American Board of Foreign Missions.

[Correspondence of the Press and Tribune.]

DETROIT, Sept. 9, 1858.

Interesting sacramental services were held at Dr. Duffield's Church and at the Presbyterian Church on Fort street. Evening exercises were held at Dr. Kitchel's Church and at Dr. D.'s various addresses being offered at each.

At Dr. Ketchel's Church, Hon. Linus Child, of Lowell, Mass., presided, and made some opening remarks. He spoke of the importance of the Church doing its duty. This must be by individual responsibility and effort. The Church is in some measure coming up to its duty, but it is feebly yet. God is showing his determination to bring all men to the knowledge of the truth. We must respond.

Rev. Dr. Chickering, of Portland, Me., followed. "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." We shall sing it to-morrow. Why is it? It is because there are strong Christian affinities. The tie comes from Christ. It is this which separates the Church from the world. It is a test of character. Try it. Dr. C. went on to speak of salvation. It is cheering to hear that a vessel is saved, and so many lives preserved, but how indifferent are we to the tidings of the great salvation. We need to feel as William Jay, of Bath, did when he said to his parishoners, "Dear friends, this is heaven, or the way to it. Do you feel so, my friends?" He also spoke of giving. We must remember that misers' mites are not widows' mites. Children, yes, even the best are to be given up. "Stand up for Jesus." This is to be our motto. We must pledge ourselves to this Society of Salvation. The Jesuits called theirs the Society of Jesus. Ours is a more honorable name.

Rev. Mr. Hazen, of the Bombay Mission, next addressed the meeting. Twelve years ago he had sailed for India. People asked with astonishment if he had seen hook-swinging and all the cruelties attributed to India. He had. The Hindoos said no pain or sickness followed their cruel rites. He knew better. One woman had been sick six months after the hook-swinging. To-day is a great day in India. They are thinking of you. They have a meeting at the same hours of the day. At 9 A. M. the natives assemble for prayer, alone, without the Missionary; at 2 o'clock they meet again. They have talked over the Cable, too. This evening the Missionary brethren are by themselves, praying for the descent of the Spirit. We sometimes have the same sermon, only it is a year older. You may ask, how we do our work. Social worship is unknown among the natives. We ask people, as Boaz did, "to turn aside and sit down by the gate." Questions are asked, and often politely; they must be answered immediately. Ridicule must be parried; discussion often follows. The heathen will often ridicule their own gods, but they still worship them. We must be careful in the discussion, lest they draw us away from Christ. We begin to tell them of Him. If we say that He died, they say He cannot be God; if we say He rose again, they give attention; if we call up miracles, they have as many to offer, but they cannot get by the resurrection. They advance slowly from one degree of light into another.

He said we are in danger of too great generalities. China is open, but not converted; so with India. The millions must be reached one by one. Present results are small, but if we are faithful in detail we shall conquer. The work among the Karens has been wonderful; nearly a thousand have been baptized at once. They will at some time be moved in masses. The Missionary needs help for this work—your prayers, your sympathy at the Monthly Concert; if these fail, he is discouraged. He pictured the revolt, but said that Christ would be true to his people in every time of need.

The large congregation then sang the Missionary hymn, "From Greenland's icy mountains."

Dr. Parker, of China, next addressed the meeting. He made a few opening remarks on the present age. In the progress of the arts, literature and science, and of the Church of Christ, to what a giddy height we have arrived! The Thames has been tunnelled; they propose to try the English Channel next, and stocks are willingly taken. It has been said that in the nineteenth century nothing is wonderful, as there are so many wonders. We have great changes in business and commerce. Let us see that we are planted upon the Word of God; then we shall go safely.

I went to China as a Physician and as a Missionary. English brethren said they were long convinced that medical missions rested on the authority and example of Jesus Christ.

Dr. P. had treated all classes of men from the highest to the lowest. The Hospital was first opened to treat ophthalmia, but soon extended to other diseases. The English brethren were afraid if he did not succeed that even life would be in danger, but success crowned the first and almost every effort. Tumors have been removed three feet in circumference, limbs amputated, and cataracts removed. Sixteen patients were before me at one time, from the child of four years old to the aged woman of seventy-nine. This old woman insisted on having both eyes operated on the same day.

Among the titles he received was this: "Superlative Virtue," "A No. 1 man!" These medical labors gave the Chinese confidence in us. We could from time to time preach the gospel to many.

Dr. P. then spoke of the Revolution in China. Three millions of lives have been sacrificed during this war. One of the Governors had decapitated over one hundred thousand. He boasted of taking off twenty thousand heads in one month. The rebels also practiced great cruelties. It is said that at Nankin they burned many woman and children alive. At Canton blood was said to be an inch deep at the place of execution. God only knows what will be the success of the rebellion, man cannot tell. Dr. P. did not feel as confident as many of the brethren. He hoped the Western Powers would aid in securing rights of conscience. They could suggest this even to the Emperor himself. He (Dr. P.) believed Tae-Ping-Wang honest and resolute. Twenty-four years ago only one port was opened, now there are five. The Christian Missionary will now be allowed to go everywhere. This event cannot be overrated by any in America. He appealed to parents to give up their daughters. There is now an interesting field in China, and the promises of God have never failed of fulfillment.

Rev. Dr. Post, of St. Louis, was advertised to speak, but declined owing to the lateness of the hour. The interest of the meeting continued from than to 9½. The farewell meeting is to-morrow at 8 A. M. Detroit will long remember this meeting.

Yours truly, LOWE.

[DETROIT, Sept. 10, 1858.

FRIDAY, 7½ A. M.—The missionaries had a most precious meeting as a farewell. They gathered together in Dr. Duffield's Lecture Room and mingled their sympathies and counsels—Father Gleason of the Indian mission in the chair. He made some short and fitting remarks. Brethren, stand up for your field. Think it is the best one for you. If you can do nothing but water at old dry stumps till you die, do that prayerfully and then go home to give glory to God.

Rev. A. Grant of Africa, said Brethren, pray for us. Rev. Mr. Thompson of Jamaica, said we are working for Africa. We have been seen directly. We are just traversing the corner between freedom and slavery.

Rev. Mr. Martin, from the Copts in Egypt said, we are working on the Nile. We are stretching away gradually towards its headwaters. By-and-by we will shake hands with Bro. Grant from the other side of the Equator. Mr. Grant said we will do it now. So they shook hands heartily for Africa. The feeling of the meeting was deep and tender.

In Dr. Duffield's Church, at 8 A. M., Missionaries were introduced and gave their farewell.

Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Syria, said he could not say farewell. He pictured the water on a terrace of Lebanon, going down through the hills and valleys, a part of it through roses, and passing down to the Dead Sea.

He called it the terrace of indecision. One way led to safety and joy, another to death. Let us follow the way of life. We are all soldiers of Christ. The morning dawns. The battle is coming on—Christ is surveying it all. Let our banner be Jehovah Reigns.

Rev. Mr. Grant followed. It was with the greatest reluctance I left my missionary field. But the Providence of God made it necessary. While there was bitterness in leaving home, there has been blessedness in being here. Rev. Mr. Grant would never forget these blessed scenes. From Bangor, Me., to Davenport, Iowa, he had rejoiced in the society of Christian friends, their loaded tables, good beds; but something more needs to be done. More monthly concerts—you must do as well as New England. If you would pick up the kernels you would have enough to pay the debt. Send us a loaf every day. I can go back just as pleasantly as before. I shall be as happy as to meet you here. I close as I have at other times. Brethren of the East dan the West, pray for us. Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Kitchel.

Dr. Anderson then remarked: We have come to the close of another great and successful meeting of the Board. We have never had more of home feeling than in this city of Detroit. We shall be glad to come again. We would thank all for their kind hospitalities. It must be fifteen or twenty years before the Board will come again. How changed it will be then, and improved. We need the East and West together with both their peculiarities to convert the world. It has been assigned to me to bid farewell to our friends in Detroit and the West. We hope to meet you at Philadelphia and Boston. Where shall we go next? To Chicago, to Davenport.

Brethren, we need your help. Improve your organizations; ask all to give a little. Give us your sons and daughters. Dr. A. then in the name of the Board bid all an affectionate farewell.

Dr. Duffield followed: I prefer adieu to farewell. It takes hold of God. I rejoiced to hear our brother say that in fifteen or twenty years the Board may come again. I may not be here; others will, we hope; as we advance, hearts will swell with love to God. More will be given. I rejoice to hear my brother say we see the likeness of the East in the West, only everything grows a little larger here. Is it anything wonderful. Everything else improves; all fruits, why not spiritual ones. The obligations are ours in your coming, not yours. We have prayed that you would come filled with the Spirit, and that your prayers would be blessed to our good. All denominations have opened their hearts and doors to you. You have begun to reap your fruits. A young man of my own church last Sabbath dedicated himself to the Missionary work in China.

We are not parting—only separating for a season. We will try to be Missionaries at home. Let us reconsecrate ourselves to God. Dr. D. referred to Dr. Thomson of Syria.

Rev. Father Kent offered prayer, closing with the hymn, "Blessed is the tie that binds," &c.

It is impossible to state the deep feeling which pervaded this closing meeting. Many wept, old and young. The house was full to the close. All rejoiced to be on these heights of Zion. After the benediction, groups gathered here and there to say farewell for the last time, some never to meet until they stand before the throne of God. It has been a blessed meeting.

Yours truly, LOWE.

Highly Exciting Scenes on the St. Louis Fair Grounds.

TEN THOUSAND WOMEN FLOUNDERING IN THE MUD.

The St. Louis Democrat gives the following graphic description of a tragic-comedy that was enacted on the Fair grounds in that city on Thursday afternoon, in which "ten thousand women" were the principle performers:

The afternoon exhibition was inaugurated with great spirit, the scenes of the ring being witnessed by a densely crowded amphitheater, containing not less than from fifteen to twenty thousand persons. While the contest between the roadsters was going on, another drizzle passed over, which was soon succeeded by a dashing thunder gust with a heavy pour of rain. This drenched all outsiders, and flooded the promenade and steps of the amphitheater with two or three inches of water. The clouds broke away again and the sun peered curiously out as if to note the effect of the shower upon the scene. Evidently disappointed at the failure of his thunder gust to scatter the crowds, he again withdrew and called up out of the west a very sombre mass of vapors that stretched almost from south to north, and came slowly on with woful portent. It was evident that a long, steady rain, was about to set in. The crowd took alarm, and at about 3 o'clock the rush for omnibuses and other vehicles began. The mud was excessive. The water stood in puddles and ponds all over the grounds and along the pathways. The most decided movement was first noticed at the steps leading from the promenade of the amphitheater, which was all mud. The descent was made, and there was no other way for the ladies but to elevate such of their drapery as they desired to preserve from pollution, and make the rush. Down they came, singly and in troops. Hundreds of men and shameless boys stationed themselves at the foot of the steps, to increase the perplexities and mortifications of the ladies. The rain was coming. No time to be lost. Silk dresses were precious and must be saved, so they were caught up and drawn around the waists. Handsome petticoats were preserved in like manner. Hoops and crinoline were very inconvenient. Skeleton skirts were totally unmanageable, and in hundreds of cases were left to hang and sway and grin around the forms of their possessors, to the horror of modest men all over the ground. Slippers were entirely engulphed, as the wearers plunged from the steps and sought the dry land. Boots and gaiters were all splashed and soiled, pants and hose, ——; well, everything outside of the very cuticle itself of bifurcated feminity, was all bedabbled and bespattered with mud and slush. The rain came steadily on. The crowds in the amphitheatre rapidly dispersing, rushed headlong to the entrances of the grounds, and soon the omnibuses in waiting were besieged by thousands of men, women and children, who were frantic in their efforts to gain seats. Couples and squads ran through the mud up the road to anticipate seats in the returning vehicles. Confusion was at its hight when the rain came. Then ensued such a scene as we never hope to witness again. There were not omnibuses or wagons for half the people. The mud was ankle deep, and the rain making it deeper every minute. Women and children were caught up by frantic husbands and fathers and pitched into the doors and windows of the carriages. The horses crowded upon one another—men cursed and raved—screams of terror arose from the women on all sides—some were knocked down in the mud—others fell sprawling under foot—dresses and bonnets were torn and scattered around—many who were afraid to mingle with the crowd, stood upon its verge without shelter of any kind, the rain beating pitilessly upon their finery, streaming down their bare shoulders and necks, washing away their rosy cheeks and dark eye-brows—well, we are not equal to the description. It was a terrible sight. It was a terrible suffering and mortification to thousands who were caught in the dilemma.

At dark last night there were hundreds yet remaining on the ground. The omnibus horses were all worked down, and drivers opposed to returning, so that many were compelled either to remain on the grounds or walk to the city.

On Wednesday night, we learn, there were at least two hundred who were thus left. Last night there must have been a thousand. Happy those, yesterday, who had carriages of their own—happy those who left the ground early—happy she who wore a cheap bonnet or a cheap dress, or no flounces or moderate hoops—happy, thrice happy, she with a pretty ankle and dark stockings—miserable, very miserable, all, and every one else.

Personal and Political.

Forney's Press supports G. H. Martin, the regular Buchanan nominee for Congress in the Second District of Philadelphia, and of course goes against Hon. E. Joy Morris, an Old Whig, an American and a Republican, the only member from that city who voted throughout against the Lecompton swindle. This is worthy of note, as only the other day Mr. Forney made a glowing speech urging men of all parties to go for Haskin in New York.

—The meeting in Green River County, Utah, that nominated Wm. J. Osborne for the Legislature—the only "Gentile" who was elected—passed a resolution declaring that their candidate was pledged to use his efforts to procure the repeal of all laws "in opposition to civil liberty and the institutions and principles of this government."

—Mr. James Bogart, who died in Brooklyn a few days since, at the age of ninety, has left by will $1,000 to the American Bible Society, and $1,000 to the American Tract Society. The rest of his property, which is valued at $500,000, goes to his relatives. The deceased was an Irishman of miserly habits, and was called "Jimmy Bogart, the miser."

—The Herald states that Prof. Hughes will be dispatched from England to Trinity Bay with one of his instruments, on the 10th inst., and that he will probably be prepared to operate the cable about the 28th inst., or not later than the 1st of October—if he succeeds at all.

—Mr. Rarey's book on horse-taming, which has been sold by the million in England, has been translated into French, and fifteen thousand copies of the first edition were immediately sold.

—A reporter of the New York Tribune was pelted with eggs and flour at Staten Island while taking notes of the doings of the mob.

—The Turkish colonel who refused to interfere in behalf of the French and English Consuls at the late massacres in Jiddah, has been degraded to the ranks, and sent to a distant province.

Railway Matters.

PAYMENT BY THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL.—The Illinois Central Railroad Company give notice that an instalment of 20 per cent. on their outstanding obligations will be paid on demand at their office in New York.

PAYMENT BY THE MILWAUKEE AND MISSISSIPPI.—The September Coupons on the Third Mortgage Bonds of the Milwaukee and Mississippi Railroad Company, due on the 15th, will be paid on presentation at the office of the company in New York.

EARNINGS.—The earnings of the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad for the month of August 1858, were, from all sources, $112,341.87

ILLINOIS SOUTHERN RAILROAD.—Gen. Asa. R. Butler, President of the Illinois Southern Railroad, has effected a loan of $50,000 on the swamp lands of White County, which were donated last spring to aid the construction of the road. During the summer a considerable force has been employed on the upper end of the road, grading and clearing, and it is the purpose of the company, we learn, to let the road, at an early day, through Wabash and Saline counties. At all events, the means which the company will secure upon the White County lands, will lend vigor to operations at least in that county.—Mound City Emp.

DR. MANN'S
AGUE BALSAM,
UNRIVALLED IN THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE.
WHY? BECAUSE SINCE THE FIRST settlements of the rich prairies and fertile valleys of the West, it has been the great study of all Physicians to produce a perfect cure for ague, fever, and billious diseases, so thoroughly prevalent and so often fatal in their results. The mineral and vegetable kingdoms have heretofore been ransacked in vain for remedies only partially successful, but this is remarkable and will never fail. Reader, we defy you to find a case so obstinate that Mann's Ague Balsam will not cure; we do not hesitate to say that the remedy so long sought has at length been found that will never fail. Read the following:

Messrs. S. K. Mann & Co.—Gents: Having had occasion to use some of your Ague Balsam in my family, I find it the most prompt and efficient remedial agent for the certain cure of ague ever used, and as a strengthening tonic I think it has no equal. Your Obt Serv't, SAM'L HARDY. Oberlin, Ohio.

Messrs. S. K. Mann & Co.—Gents: Your Ague Balsam is the only remedy that seems to meet the wants of the people of this locality. We have, upon our shelves, the popular remedies of the day for the cure of Ague, tents, but Dr. Mann's Balsam sells in preference to all others, from the simple fact that it cures. It is said to excel all other remedies ever offered. Olney, Ill.

Dr. Mann & Co., Galion, Ohio—Gents: Your Ague Balsam is the people's own remedy, in this part of the country, for the cure of ague and fever. We have never known it to fail in any case when properly used. It is looked upon as a perfect antidote to malarious diseases. Very Truly Yours, REED & PHILLIPS. Cairo, Ill., May 15th, 1858.

Seymour, Ind.
Messrs. S. K. Mann & Co., Galion, Ohio—Gents: I would say for the benefit of all concerned, that I have a little daughter, about six years of age, that has had chills ever since last fall; we could do nothing with her till we received your Balsam. We commenced using it according to directions and are happy to say that she has not had a chill since she commenced taking it. I shall use my exertions in the bounds of my influence to give your Balsam a circulation. Respectfully Yours, E. P. EDWARDS.

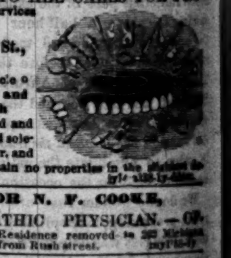

S. K. MANN & CO., Proprietors, Galion, Ohio. O. J. WOOD & CO., St. Louis, Mo., sole wholesale agents for all the Western States and Territories, and wholesale by SARGENT & ILSLEY, Chicago, Illinois, and by all good druggists in this county.

Dr. H. Symmes, of Mattoon, Ill., under date of Aug. 2d, 1858, says: "Send me another lot of Christie's Ague Balsam as I have but two bottles in store, and the demand is on the increase. I am increasing every bottle, as yet some have returned."
J. W. Plummer Druggist, Vinton, Iowa, under date of Aug. 24th, 1857, writes: "Send me half a gross of Christie's Ague Balsam. I have but three bottles on hand and it is selling rapidly. It is the best remedy for Ague I have ever sold."
Mr. A. N. Blackidge, of Metamora, Ind., writes us June 1st, 1857, and says it cures in every case where taken. Mr. S. W. Swigert, who had the Ague for twenty months. He insured three bottles to him. He took only one bottle and it made a permanent cure. He had paid about $60 for bills.

Messrs. Hunt & Gardner—Gents:—I wish to make known to the public an article from which I have derived more benefit than from all other medicines which I have ever used. I have been suffering from Fever and Ague for the last five years, during which time I have scarcely enjoyed a day of good health, until I procured from your drug store a bottle of Dr. Christie's Ague Balsam. In a few days I found myself clear of ague and rapidly recovering in health. I have not felt a symptom since, although I am very exposed to cold weather. To my friends and the public generally, suffering from the disease in any form, I would say, procure a bottle and save health, constitution, and money. Yours, J. B. GROSCUP.

DR. MANN'S AGUE BALSAM,

UNRIVALLED IN THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE.

WHY? BECAUSE SINCE THE FIRST settlements of the rich prairies and fertile valleys of the West, it has been the great study of all physicians to produce a perfect cure for ague, fever and bilious diseases, so thoroughly prevalent and so fatal in their results. The mineral and vegetable kingdoms have heretofore been ransacked in vain for remedies only partially successful, but this is a question so obstinate that Mann's Ague Balsam ... has at length been found that will never fail ... following:

Special Notices.

Falsehood vs. Facts.—A Malicious and designing card, by A. G. Bragg, extensively advertised throughout the country, in effect says: "The present proprietors of the Mexican Mustang Liniment being unprincipled men, they do not make the said Liniment as good as it formerly was, and that he (?) will not be responsible for its effects," "cautioning the public against its use," &c. This means us—Barnes and Park of New York, and J. D. Park, of Cincinnati. We have been somewhat known to the public of the United States for a number of years; were it necessary to vindicate our reputation, we should consider the endorsement of this Mr Bragg a very equivocal compliment.

His statement implies motive—either as a public benefactor (?) or to further a private interest. Which is it? This said Bragg was, at one time, partner in the Mustang Liniment, made celebrated by the originator, Mr. G. W. Westbrook, and with the composition of which Bragg had nothing to do. Mr. W. paid Mr. B. $50,000 for his half interest in the article. Of course, the implied and covenanted consideration for such an amount of money was, that "he, Bragg, should not forever, in any manner, directly or indirectly, be interested in manufacturing or selling any Liniment Ointment or Salve." Mr. Westbrook was heavily engaged in outside business. To protect his property and pay Bragg he offered to sell this Liniment. We knew the value of the article, made the advance, held the cancelled notes in full—Bragg's receipt in full for $50,000—and became owner's of the Liniment. We took immediate means to examine its recipe, protect its purity, increase its sale, etc. We believed then, as now, that no advertisement was as cheap as a really good medicine, and that our interest lay directly in reaching the interest of the consumers. This Liniment always popular, was ever entitled to the same attention as now. The very best materials are used—the recipe is alone ours.

In less than six months from our purchase of the Liniment, Mr. Bragg entered the market with an imitation and counterfeit article, under another name. We prevented his contract of sale; he scouted the moral obligation, and cloaked his legal position by doing business under the name of his son. He has struggled for some time, unable to make his article sell. It is not liked; people say "it has no virtue." Is not his failure at imposture, and the immense success of our Liniment the goading occasion of this act (disinterested) public appeal? The public are not interested between Barnes and Park and A. G. Bragg, but they are interested in the genuine purity of an article of such universal necessity as this Liniment. Will you be imposed upon? We have remained quiet; he mistakes the cause and treads close. We warn him of the results; if he proceeds further it will be when we cannot perceive villainy, and when we dare not punish its perpetrator, and protect our rights.

We manufacture the original, genuine Mustang Liniment. We are reponsible for its effects.

Respectfully, BARNES & PARK.

New York and Cincinnati.

Dr. Christie's Ague Balsam.—The excessive heat of the past summer has left almost everybody in a debilitated condition, and therefore liable to bilious diseases. The fever and ague is now quite prevalent, and we consider it our duty to call the attention of the public to one of the greatest remedies of the age for all Bilious Complaints, such as Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, &c. Unlike nearly all similar preparations, it is free from poisonous substances, and it can be administered to all ages and classes without injurious results.

Use no other Ague Balsam except CHRISTIE'S, as there are several articles by that name which are totally unlike Dr. Christie's, the original inventor. See Advertisement.

BOLLES, SMITH & CO., 14 South Water street, Western Agents, to whom all orders should be addressed.

For sale by druggists generally.

Sawyer's Fluid Extract of Bark, an infallible remedy for the Fever and Ague, and the various forms of Bilious Diseases, Intermittent, Remittent, Chill Fever and Dumb Ague, having their origin in malaria of very fertile and marshy districts, prepared by Dr. S. S. Sawyer, Druggist and Chemist, and sold by Sawyer, Paine & Co., No. 16 Lake street, Chicago.

This remedy is prepared entirely from vegetable substances, and contains no mercury, arsenic, or anything that can prove injurious to the system. Its effects are those of a deobstruent and tonic, well adapted to restore the healthy action of the Liver and Stomach, whose functions are so generally impaired in this class of diseases.

Quinine and other tonics serve only in many cases to break the chills, but do not remove the diseases of the liver and other organs implicated, on which the chill and fever depend; hence the usefulness of the "Fluid Extract of Bark," (particularly in regions where Physicians cannot be readily consulted), which contains all the qualities suited to the indications of these maladies.

Hundreds of testimonials in regard to the efficacy of the medicine from persons of respectability, have been given to the proprietor—but he does not make use of them as he prefers to have the medicine introduce itself securely by its merits.

Dyspepsia and Fits.—Dr. O. Phillips BROWN. The Great Curer of Consumption, was for several years so badly afflicted with Dyspepsia that for a part of the time he was confined to his bed. He was eventually cured by a prescription furnished him by a young clairvoyant girl. This prescription, given him by a mere child, while in a trance, has cured everybody who has taken it—never having failed once. It is equally as sure in cases of Fits as Dyspepsia. The ingredients may be found in any Drug Store. I will send this prescription to any person on the receipt of one stamp to pay postage. Address DR. O. PHILLIPS BROWN, No 21 Grand st., Jersey City, N. J.

Hostetter's Bitters—For sale by Fahnestock & DAVIS, 118 Randolph street.

Charles' London Cordial Gin.—The Original and only London Gin Imported. This Gin, distilled in London from sound Barley, under the surveillance of the British Excise Laws, is delicately flavored with a tincture of the Italian Juniper Berry, and some of the most valuable restoratives of the Vegetable Kingdom, rendering it in the opinion of the most eminent medical men, the purest and safest stimulant or diuretic drink in use.

It is a delicious tonic, of a soft and delicate flavor, differs entirely from any other Gin, and devoid of that harsh, acrid taste, which renders the article known as Holland Gin or Schnapps so objectionable.

Though not intended as a medicine, it is recommended by physicians generally in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, the Kidneys and the Bowels, Nervous Debility, &c., whilst the water mix will find by its adoption a sure relief from those distressing annoyances which frequently attend their deliberation.

Dr. Valentine Mott, of New York, the highest medical authority, pronounces Charles' London Cordial Gin "not only superior to any other, but the best article of the kind he has ever seen."

It is peculiarly adapted to settlers in the Southern and Western States, as well as for travellers exposed to changes of water and air.

For sale in quarts at seventy-five cents, and pints thirty-eight cents, by all Druggists, Grocers, Fruiterers, and Country Merchants. Beware of imitations. Buy only CHARLES'. NONE OTHER IS IMPORTED.

How Cyrus Field Laid the Cable—A Ballad.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

[From Harper's Weekly.]

Come listen all unto my song;
It is no silly fable;
'Tis all about the mighty cord
They call the Atlantic Cable.

Bold CYRUS FIELD, he said, says he,
I have a pretty notion
That I can run a telegraph
Across the Atlantic Ocean.

Then all the people laughed, and said,
They'd like to see him do it;
He might get half-seas-over, but
He never could get through it.

To carry out his foolish plan
He never would be able;
He might as well go hang himself
With his Atlantic Cable.

But CYRUS was a valiant man,
A fellow of decision;
And heeded not their mocking words,
Their laughter and derision.

Twice did his bravest efforts fail,
And yet his mind was stable;
He wasn't the man to break his heart
Because his broke his cable.

"Once more, my gallant boys!" he cried;
"Three times!"—you know the fable—
("I'll make it thirty," muttered he,
"But I will lay the cable!")

Once more they tried—hurrah! hurrah!
What means this great commotion?
The Lord be praised! the cable's laid
Across the Atlantic Ocean!

Loud ring the bells—for flashing through
Six hundred leagues of water,
Old Mother England's benison
Salutes her eldest daughter.

O'er all the land the tidings speed,
And soon in every nation,
They'll hear about the cable with
Profoundest admiration!

Now long live JAMES, and long live VIC.,
And long live gallant CYRUS;
And may his courage, faith and zeal
With emulation fire us.

And may we honor evermore
The manly, bold and stable,
And tell our sons, to make them brave,
How CYRUS laid the cable.

Three Hundred Mormon Women Renouncing the Faith.

[From the Jefferson City (Mo.) Examiner.]

By the arrival of a young man named Herbert Brandon we have been furnished with the following information from Salt Lake:

"I" (says our informont) "left Camp Scott on the 13th of June. The Mormon excitement had been entirely abated. Several Mormon trains had passed Camp Scott on their way to the States."

They stated, while camped at the above place, thrt they would not have been permitted to leave, or they wovld have abandoned Salt Lake long ago.

On being questioned as to their determination to resist the entrance of the United States troops, they replied that the major part of the Mormons only awaited the entrance of the troops in order to effect their escape from Brigham Young and Mormonism.

On their arrival at Camp Scott, they were minus the common necessaries of life. On being asked the cause of their destitute condition, they stated that before Brigham Young had relented from his determination to resist the troops, he had ordered them to deposit what provisions they had in the store-house; but as soon as he made known his intention of going south, those of the Mormons who refused to go, were deprived of all, and could get nothing for their outfit. They also stated that but for the interference of Gov. Cumming, the destroying angel would have forced them away, and that they did succeed, in some instances, in driving away several women. I come down with two Mormon trains from Camp Scott, numbering about 300 persons, principally women, who were chiefly English, and some Scotch; and the principal topic of their conversation throughout was the absurdity of Mormonism and its principles. They were all unanimous in their denunciations of Brigham Young and his apostles, and talked of his assassination by the Mormons who remained at Camp Scott, as a sure event. They have all (without exception) become disgusted with Mormonism and renounced it, and expressed their determination from henceforth to use all their efforts for the total annihilation of Mormonism. They express their desire to return to their native countries and would, if they had the means to do so, in order that they might be instrumental in saving others from the baneful influence of Mormonism. On their arrival at Plattsmouth, on the Missouri River, they had calculated to cross over to Council Bluffs, but the bad condition of the roads in Iowa changed their resolve, and they are now dispersing themselves in Kansas and Nebraska Territories."

Mr. Brandon gave us many other interesting particulars, from which we conclude that a speedy dissolution awaits the community of Latter Day Saints. Many of the women, although they went to Utah innocent and pure, we judge, are very unlikely to lead a very exemplary life in the future. They have been debased until they are likely to abandon themselves to the loathsome life of prostitution.

An Extraordinary Story.

Mr. Charles Reade, the popular author, sends a communication to the London Times, in which he gives the story of a young man who has just escaped from a private mad house, where he has been confined through the machinations of his relations. Mr. Reade has investigated the case, and pronounced the subject perfectly sane. It appears that the alleged madman was the son of a merchant who died, leaving behind a very handsome property. Shortly before his death, he made a will, leaving his son certain personalities, the interest of £5,600, and, should he live to be twenty-four, the principal of ditto, and the reversion, after his mother's death, of another considerable sum.

Early last year the young man began to inquire why the principal due to him was not paid. His uncle told him there were no assets to his father's credit, and never had been. On this, he admits he wrote "abominably passionate" letters and demanded to see the books. This was refused him, but a balance sheet was sent to him, which was no evidence to his mind, and did not bear the test of addition, being $40,000 out, on the evidence of its own figures.

To get rid of the troublesome matter, the uncle had the young man seized and incarcerated in a private mad-house. The latter alleges that the keeper of the house declared that he should never get out, so that the intention of the uncle evidently was to imprison him for life. He, however, managed to escape. Mr. Reade, went to Doctors. Commons, found the will, and also found that the "maniac's" tale was true. The uncle had been playing a desperate game. But Mr. Reade was determined to prove beyond a doubt the sanity of his protege, and therefore took him before Drs. Dickson and Rutledge, who examined him carefully, and pronounced him perfectly sane. The exposure of this atrocious villainy has produced much comment in London, and will doubtless lead to the most rigid investigation.

Lord Brougham as a Traveling Companion.

[From the Philadelphia Press.]

Lord Brougham himself, as we happen to know by experience, is by no means a good traveling companion in a railway carriage. Suppose yourself accompanying him to his country seat (Brougham Hall,) near Penrith, which is some three hundred miles from London. In ordinary cases a prudent man starts by the mail train, from Euston Square station, at 9 P. M., and placing himself as comfortably as possible in the comfortable, well-padded compartment allotted to him, applies himself to sleep, and probably awakens only once or twice before he reaches his journey's end, somewhere about 5 in the morning. But have Lord Brougham in the carriage, and whatever else you do, never think of sleep. It matters nothing whether you have been in habits of daily intercourse with him, or whether he comes across you for the first time, be sure that, from the time you quit London until he gets out at Penrith, Lord Brougham will overwhelm you with a monologue of extraordinary interest and variety—an avalanche of talk. He will cross-examine you on all subjects, with which he thinks you ought to be familiar, and he will astonish you with the extent of his own information upon matters which you would have supposed to be wholly out of his own line. Such a journey was enjoyed, once upon a time, by a townsman of ours, (Mr. Grugan, of the firm of L. J. Levy & Co.) and it ended in the wondrous conversationist disclosing his name at the termination, and warmly asking his fellow traveler to partake of his hospitality at Brougham Hall.

"Fellow-citizens!" said a North Carolina candidate. "I am a Democrat, and was never anything else. There are three topics that now agitate the State: the United States Bank, the Tariff and the Penitentiary. I shall pass over the first two very briefly, as my sentiments are well known, and come to the Penitentiary, where I shall dwell for some time.

Singular Jail Delivery.

[From the Portage City (Wis.) Record, 8th.]

On Monday morning last at about half past eight o'clock, Roderick Barron, a prisoner in the Columbia County Jail, came post haste down town on one of the Sheriff's horses to inform Deputy Graves that there had been another jail delivery. It seems that on that morning a prisoner by the name of Evison, from Kilbourn City, was let out to empty and clean the buckets belonging to the cells. When returning into the jail he concealed an axe under his coat, and on getting to the top of the stairs leading into the cells, cut the padlock of the first door off at one blow, and then with three or four blows more did the same to the inner one. Evison and two prisoners by the names of James McGuire and Eli Bagley, who were chained together, then went down stairs brandishing the axe and proceeded to the Sheriff's stable. Evison then cut McGuire's and Bagley's chain. Barron, another prisoner, was in the stable. Him they threatened with instant death if he attempted to give an alarm. The three then took each a horse and started towards Fort Winnebago. After their departure Barron took the remaining horse and came down after Deputy Graves, who hastened after the fugitives. In the meantime rather an amusing incident occurred. John Murray, who, it will be remembered, was tried and convicted at the last term of the Circuit Court of the murder of Patrick Bowes, of Newport, but was not sentenced by Judge Collins, was extremely anxious to pursue the escaped prisoners. He felt confident he could catch them. The Deputy's wife was finally prevailed on to allow him the use of a cold chisel, with which he cut off his own irons and started in pursuit. He made promise that he would surely return if he did not succeed in effecting their capture. The idea of allowing a convicted murderer to pursue a burglar and one up for assault and battery is certainly novel to say the least. True to his promise, however, in about two hours Murray returned.

The horses have been found just west of Kingston, where the prisoners left them. The Sheriff has offered $100 reward to be paid out of his own pocket on the arrest of the fugitives.

An English View of Charles Sumner.

The London Illustrated News accompanies a portrait of the Massachusetts Senator with a critique on his character and services, from which we quote the following:

"In purity of life and simplicity of character, Mr. Sumner is an exemplary citizen and statesman. His commanding presence; his manner, dignified in argument but vehement in passion; his sonorous voice; his benignant countenance, glowing with generous and humane emotions, make him an expressive speaker in the Senate and on the tribune, and bind his audience with the spell of fascination. Several of his speeches have been published in this country in various editions, and have been read by Englishmen more than those of any other American orator. They enfold truths which appeal to the primary and universal instincts of human nature, and, as such, address men of all nations. In this respect, as also in the luxuriance and elaborate finish of his style, he bears no inconsiderable resemblance to Edmund Burk. The portrait of the English and that of the American statesman, we may add, also discover a still further resemblance, which has often been noticed."

COL. BENTON'S ABRIDGMENT OF THE DEBATES OF CONGRESS.

IT EMBRACES THE PERIOD OF JOHN Quincy Adam's Administration, and consequently continues the celebrated debate on the appointment of representatives to the proposed Diplomatic Congress at Panama. In that debate the great question of International law, and of the proper relations and conditions of this country with respect to other States of this Continent, that are again arising in the proposed abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and in kindred subjects, were discussed by some of the ablest minds that this country has produced. Among the debaters on this occasion may be noted such names as Hayne, Robbins of Rhode Island, Woodbury, White of Tennessee, Johnston of Louisiana, Van Buren, Holmes, Randolph. In fact, the discussion was one of the most able that has occurred in our annals. The speech of Col. Benton on this occasion was pronounced by Mr. Randolph "the ablest that had been delivered in Congress since John Marshall's speech in the Jonathan Robbins case," in 1800.

Price per vol. $3 00 in Cloth; $3 50 Law Sheep; $4 50 half Calf.

The Abridgement of the Debates will be completed in 15 vols., 750 pages each, comprising what is now contained in over one hundred volumes. A complete, accurate and convenient Index is appended to each volume. Subscription received by the publishers.

NOTICE—THE PAST EIGHTEEN MONTHS' experience has given the citizens of Chicago ample proof that the soap process of cleansing gentlemen's clothes will not do, as practised by those inexperienced in the business. The fact of the matter is this, that unless your coats, vests and pants are dyed, cleaned, and neatly repaired by men skilled in their vocation, they had far better never be touched at all—but when they are operated upon by experienced workmen, it is certainly a great saving to the community at large, at the same time conducing much to the bodily comfort. Now, gentlemen, all of you that know the thing, know enough by this time to be fully convinced that the only true and reliable source of having your coats, vests and pants cleaned, neatly repaired and made to look like new, is by COOK & McLAIN'S Chemical process. It certainly does remove every spot of grease, paint, wax and tar, together with all blemishes and impurities to which such garments are liable. The spots are warranted not to reappear, as a beautiful finish lustre is put on as when first new.

Gentlemen, call at COOK & McLAIN'S and look at specimens of their coat dressing. If they fail to please you no charge will be made.

Remember COOK & McLAIN, 96 Dearborn street, south of the Post Office.

LIGHT!! MORE LIGHT!!

EVERY FAMILY THEIR OWN GAS MAKER. NO CHEMICAL HUMBUG.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE MADE EXtensive arrangements for supplying any store, public house or private dwelling in the city or suburbs with

J. W. Smith's New Patent Gas Generator.

By means of this exceedingly simple, cheap and convenient arrangement, any family can have, at a cost not to exceed one-fourth the cost of the city gas, a far more brilliant and white, and not at all offensive. This is one of the cheapest inventions ever made for the ... is flooded, but genuine Gas, manufactured by every one ... simple arrangement (lately patented) made to attach to any gas pipe, to be used with ordinary gas burners.

THINGS YOU WILL AVOID BY USING THIS GAS.

1st—Three-fourths of all expense.
2d—All offensive odor.
3d—Uncertain and poor light.
4th—The annoyance of defective meters, monthly bills, ... &c.

The following are among the many certificates we have from those using this Gas:

Washington City, D. C., July 1st, 1858.

This may certify that we have been using John W. Smith's Portable Gas Generator, to light our store, which has 8 burners, using from 6 to 8 feet per hour to each burner, making the gas every night as we use it. We find this new invention to be a valuable one. For economy, safety and brilliancy it by far exceeds every other light now extant. Our gas bill from the Gas Company in this city averaged $28 per month, when less than 4 feet was used ... not over $4 or $5 per month, and producing a much stronger and purer light. Our experience with it since the 1st of February last warrants us in recommending it to all that may wish a cheap and safe light.

E. TUCKER & BRO., Pennsylvania avenue.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—The undersigned are now using in their store, 74 State street, one of J. W. Smith's Portable Gas Generators, and from experiments carefully made by us we are well satisfied that the cost of gas made by this apparatus will not exceed one-fourth of the expense of the City Gas for an equal number of burners, the capacity of the burners being equal. The light is also whiter and more brilliant, and without offensive odor. The apparatus is exceedingly simple and easily managed, and the process of making the gas is so plain and simple as to bring it fully within the comprehension of the most ordinary mind, of all of which facts we shall be happy to demonstrate to any person who may wish, by calling at our store, 74 State street, at any time after 8 o'clock A. M. and nine o'clock P. M.

KENOSHA WATER CURE.

THIS INSTITUTION IS FOUNDED UPON the principle of using "Nature's Remedies" in the cure of disease, and of instructing patients their uses so they may not only regain but maintain health.

The location of the CURE is eminently adapted for the purpose, being situated in one of the most pleasant cities of the west, for which for health, pure air and water, cannot be surpassed.

Our Rooms and Bathing conveniences are well arranged for the comfort of Patients, and no pains will be spared to make their stay agreeable.

A Gymnasium and Bowling Alley are in connection with the Institution.

We would call the attention of the afflicted to a new remedy, the

Electro Chemical Baths,

Which we have introduced into this CURE. Persons who have worked in Paints, or taken mercury or mineral medicines of any kind, will do well to test these Baths.

The terms of this Institution are $6 to $9 per week—payable weekly.

Invalids will bring six crash towels, two cotton or linen sheets, a flannel blanket and two comfortables.

Those desiring home treatment will inclose $3 to

H. T. SEELEY, M. D. Physician.

HOP YEAST.

ATTENTION HOUSEKEEPERS.—Knowing the difficulty of getting Good Yeast in this city and county, the undersigned has commenced the manufacture of Hop Yeast in Chicago. It is put up in the form of a dry cake and is known as the "New England Dry Hop Yeast Cake." They may be had of any respectable Grocer in this city, and towns in this and adjoining states. By using these cakes and keeping them on hand, you can in two minutes time have a cup of fresh yeast and at an expense of one penny.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING.—Break a cake into a cup of blood warm water—it will dissolve in two minutes—then make your sponge and set it to rise over night. Knead your dough well and keep it warm until ready for the oven and you will have better bread than with any other yeast. One cake is sufficient for three quarts of flour. Retail price, 1 shilling for a package of 12 cakes, or $1.25 for a gross box.

Inquire of your grocer for the New England Dry Hop Yeast Cake, and take nothing else if you would have good raised bread. If he has not got it ask him to get it for you. Manufactory on State street, one door north of Stewart's Mills, Chicago, Ill. P. O. address Box 3134. Grocers orders promptly filled whether in city or country.
